Ku-Klux in Pennsylvania—Terrible State of Affairs.

We clip the following from a Pennsylvania paper. "Can such things be," and Grant, the mighty autocrat of the United States, repose at Long Branch. Speed thee, Ulysses, to Washington. Send the bayonet to Pennsylvania! Where is that Ku-Klux Committee? Rush to Pennsylvania, gentlemen, and stand not upon the order of your going. Shall the laws be thus set at defiance? Surely the telegraph will tell us of an immediate movement of troops:

A young man named Lock, having made arrangements for marrying a young lady, in Dunksburg, Pa., against the wishes of her relations, was, last week, taken from his bed, at midnight, by a gang of masked men, carried to the woods, and being tied to a tree, naked, was beaten with heavy whips until nearly dead.

Georgia Matters.

Races in Augusta....Capt. Edward Camfield, an old citizen of Augusta, is dead. So says the Chronicle and Sentinel.

From the Macon Telegraph and Messenger we get the following: Hon. George M. Logan, dangerously ill at Vineville....The Brown House is having a marble floor....The Mulberry street Methodist Church realized $400 from their festival and supper on Friday and Saturday....The mean heat in Macon for the past month has been, at 8 o'clock, A. M., 80 degrees; at 2 P. M. 83 4-10ths degrees; at 6 P. M. 86 3-10th degrees.....Fine clover in Monroe county....Mr. Louis Kenan was killed in Milledgeville yesterday afternoon by Mr. John Strother.

The Monroe Advertiser says crops in the bottoms all look well....The examination and exercises of Chapel Hill Academy, closed on Thursday last....The influx of visitors to Indian Springs, thus far, has not been large....The annual commencement exercises of Monroe Female College opened Sunday last. The commencement sermon was preached in the College Chapel, by the Rev. Wm. A. Davis, of Richmond county to a large and appreciative audience.

The Rome Courier says the citizens are called upon to vote on Saturday, the 8th inst., for or against a city subscription of $100,000 to the North and South Railroad....Fine cotton 18½ to 19 cents.

The Cartersville Express says peaches from wagons are selling at $1 per bushel....The down freight train on the Western and Atlantic Railroad came very near running into a funeral procession, on Friday last, near this place.

Annual Meeting of the Hall County Bible Society.

GAINESVILLE, GA., June 25, 1871.

The second annual meeting of the Hall County Bible Society was held this day, in the Baptist Church in Gainesville, E. M. Johnson, President in the chair, W. H. Campbell, Secretary. Religious services were conducted by Rev. Wm. A. Parks and Rev. W. T. Thornton. The meeting was then ably and eloquently addressed by Rev. Dr. Jesse Boring and Rev. Wm. A. Parks, agent A. B. Society. The following are the reports:

ANNUAL REPORT.

It will be seen, from the above report, that the society has done but little during the past year, which we very much regret, but have done what we could with the limited means at our disposal. We have only been able to keep a supply of Bibles and Testaments on hand for sale at the very low prices at which the parent society has been enabled to publish them, and to donate to those who come forward and make known their destitution. While we regard this as a great blessing to any community, our sympathizers run out to the poor and destitute of our county and country, many of whom are without the Bible, and do not know how to appreciate its divine teachings, and we wish to be able to send out a colporture to visit all such, and scatter the moral darkness with the rays of divine truth.

And, brethren, we are convinced that none of us do, or can appreciate the Bible and its influence as we ought; for it is not only the guide in moral and religious duty, the polar lamp on earth to guide the wondering pilgrims through this vale of affection to immortal joys beyond; but it is the great source of light and heavenly teachings, to which we are indebted for all our advancements in science, government, civilization, and all that tends to elevate and ennoble the human race. Let us therefore esteem it a privilege to do all we can to disseminate "the Divine truth, till the enobled earth shall sing from every electric zone," Glory to God in the highest, peace on earth and good will to man. A collection was taken amounting to one hundred and seventeen dollars and ninety-five cents.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: E. M. Johnson, President; Rev. W. T. Thornton, Vice President; W. H. Campbell, Secretary; A. Whelchel, Treasurer; Whelchel and Palmour, Depositary. Executive Committee—J. E. Bridwine, Dr. R. B. Green, A. M. Cochran, H. W. Rich, J. B. M. Wimburn, D. H. McDonald, P. F. Lawsche, H. W. King, H. L. Smith.

Adjourned with the benediction.

E. M. JOHNSON, President.

W. H. CAMPBELL, Secretary.

Requested that the Air-Line, Eagle and Constitution publish.

THE COTTON SITUATION.—The New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle, of Friday, makes the visible supply of cotton, at that date, 2,013,463, against 1,640,028 bales, at the same date last year, showing an increase of 373,404 bales. The telegram published yesterday, made the net stock excess over last year 389,647, showing an approximate harmony in these estimates.

☞ Ireland between 1861 and 1871, has lost about 400,000 population.

☞ A pumkin five feet in circumference, was opened in Jacksonville, Fla., and green growing vines found inside.

LONG BRANCH, July 4.—The races were attended by fifteen thousand persons. Oysterman won the steeple chase, in which one horse struck a fence and was killed. Susan Ann won the second race, and the Jersey Derby stakes were won by Henry Bassett.

The monarchists and imperialists are greatly discouraged by the surprising Republican success in the provinces.

The French demand an early evacuation of the Paris forts and the three departments occupied by the Germans. Bismarck declines to promise.

The Assembly is considering the bill requiring the deposit of caution money from newspapers.

Candidates who were pledged solely to the restoration of the integrity of France have been successful in several departments.

A train ran off the Northern Railway, by which six were killed and twenty hurt.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 4.—The Regatta has been postponed.

Tammany celebrated the 4th as usual, at their hall. Governor Hoffman sent a letter, in which he said the acceptance, or non-acceptance of certain amendments to the United States Constitution, is not a practical question. The civil status of the colored man is established, and he is in actual possession of the right of suffrage. The task before us is to save the Constitution as a whole; to save it as it requires our best efforts. The question is whether we are to live under the Constitution construed by an impartial Court and limited, or under a hollow form of the Constitution interpreted according to the expediency of the hour by Congress itself, and enforced by an unrestrained Executive. Wm. M. Tweed in the course of his remarks said, we propose to carry forward into a noble career, let past issues die; we propose to take the government of the country into our own hands, and save the country from ruin.

Georgia with an Empty Treasury.

The Hon. John P. King, of Augusta, writes to the Treasurer of the State of Georgia stating that he holds State bonds due the 1st of July, and inquiring whether they will be paid at the Treasury or in New York. Mr. Angier, the Treasurer, replies as follows:

"I can only state that this office has no funds for the purpose mentioned in your letter, and I have no assurance that there will be any on the first of July next. Executive warrants for claims against the Western and Atlantic Railroad, absorb everything. I have paid over $400,000, on account of said claims, since January last, and still they come. I am of the opinion that your bonds, that mature on the first of next month, will be paid at Henry Clews & Co., 22 Wall street, New York. Every attempt has been made to keep this office in the dark, as regards State financial transactions, and I regret my inability to answer, positively, your enquiries."

Here we have a specimen of Radical rule in the South—an empty treasury. Not only that, but the Treasurer is kept "in the dark as regards State financial transactions." A holder of the bonds of the State can get no information as to the ability of the State to redeem these bonds when they mature, nor can he learn that any preparation has been made to meet its maturing obligations.

The Treasurer states that "Executive warrants for claims against the Western and Atlantic Railroad absorb everything," and that he has already paid over $400,000 of such claims. The management of this road appears to have been outrageously corrupt. The present lessees pay the State $25,000 free of expenses for the rent of the road, and it is doing no heavier business now than under the management of Foster Blodgett. For several months before the road was leased it did not pay a dollar into the Treasury, and at the same time sunk about a half a million more than it earned.

That simple statement tells its own tale as to the gross mismanagement of the road. Have the people of Georgia no redress for this outrageous conduct? They are heavily taxed to meet the extravagant if not corrupt expenditures of the Radical agents of the State, while the creditors of Georgia are frankly told by the Treasurer that there is no money with which to redeem the obligations they hold. High taxes and an empty treasury are the fruits of Radical rule, not only in Georgia, but in every State of the South.—Nashville Union and American.

ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

BY W... PHILLIPS.

L. W. AVERY, Editor.

Morning Edition.

ATLANTA:

THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1871.

Oglethorpe University.

The Board of Trustees meet this morning at 10 o'clock.

Hon. W. P. Price.

We were happy to greet in our sanctum yesterday, the Hon. W. P. Price, our Congressman from the Sixth District. The Colonel is as young looking, hearty and jovial as ever.

Oglethorpe College.

Our people have had the pleasure of witnessing the commencement exercises of this institution, the first since its establishment. The hall was crowded day and night with the beauty and intelligence of Atlanta. The exercises compared favorably with any we have ever witnessed, and our people have cause for great rejoicing over the acquisition of a college for the education of young men, that will challenge comparison with the best in the land. Henceforth Atlanta looks forward to annually recurring commencement occasions, and our whole people are waking up to the determination of making our college second to none in the South. The next term will open with a largely increased number of students.

The Georgia Western Road.

By the proceedings, which appear in our local columns, it will be seen that, at the meeting yesterday of the stockholders of this road, a President and ten Directors were elected. We are glad that harmony was secured in casting the vote of the city. The friends of our fellow citizen, E. E. Rawson, Esq., during the absence of that gentleman from the city, warmly pressed his claims for the Presidency, and the issue became involved in great uncertainty. But Mr. Rawson, determined not to be an obstacle to entire harmony of action, notified his friends to withdraw his name. The vote was therefore cast unanimously for Major Campbell Wallace, whose energy, experience and railroad reputation give promise of the speedy building of the road. Now let the work go forward without delay. The people are in earnest and a unit.

☞ The shoe manufacturers of the United States protest against the taxes imposed upon them, and say that the tariff has a tendency to drive their products from the markets of Canada, Mexico and the West Indies; a trade they enjoyed for more than a century. They ask for an entire removal of all protective duties.

☞ Atlanta, Ga., is the dirtiest city in the United States.

We clip the above from the "small talk," of the Lynchburg Republican. Those living in glass houses should not throw stones.

Georgia Western Railroad.

A correspondent of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, extolling the prospective benefits to be derived from a connection with the mineral regions of Alabama by means of the railroad named at the head of this article, says:

The question now to be decided is, how to insure its completion. The plain answer is, to put the right man at the head of the enterprise. Who is that man? I say emphatically, Major Campbell Wallace is pre-eminently the man for the place. Secure him as President, and the road will be speedily built. His influence in both States is greater than any other man's. His position as general manager of the building of the North and South Road in Alabama has placed him prominently before the people and State authorities of that State for two years past, and no man can wield greater influence in behalf of the enterprise of that State than he, and it is certain that no man can do more for it in Georgia than he.

His standing with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad would insure to the Western the good will and pecuniary aid of that Company, which, of itself, would secure the completion of the road without the vexation of pecuniary State aid.

Let Major Wallace be made President before his influence and abilities become directed to the building of a rival line through Northeast Georgia.

We entirely agree with the correspondent whom we have quoted, that Major Campbell Wallace is the man not only for that place, but for any other in which the chief duty of the incumbent is to push through a road that no other man could push through; but the truth is we need the Major in Montgomery yet awhile, and expect that need to deepen and widen, and grow more urgent as successive years roll onward from the future into the past. In plain language; we can't spare him now, and never expect to be able to spare him hereafter. It would please us decidedly—because it would assist in building up our State—to see the Georgia Western Road built. The magnitude of this great enterprise will be better understood by our readers when they know that the road, as projected, is expected to cross the two States of Alabama and Mississippi from East to West, crossing in this State the counties of Cleburne, Calhoun, Talladega, St. Clair, Jefferson, Walker, Fayette, and Sandford, thus opening up to Atlanta, Augusta, and other Southern cities the finest coal and iron fields in the world. If Atlanta will ignore all wild-cat-ism in this great enterprise and start off right, and in earnest, she will find the solid men of Alabama standing shoulder to shoulder with her until the great work is completed. But we can't spare Major Wallace—let that be understood—Montgomery Advertiser.

The Doctors in Council—Interesting; perhaps Stormy Session Anticipated—The Disciples of Esculapius Gathering from all Quarters—The Cause Assigned for "A Call for a Convention of the Regular Physicians of Georgia"—Atlanta and other cities represented.

MACON, GA., July 5, 1871.

Editor Constitution: By reason of the following call signed by one hundred and fourteen physicians, representing distinct and remote localities, the extraordinary convocations occurs in this city to-day.

A CALL FOR A CONVENTION OF THE REGULAR PHYSICIANS OF GEORGIA.

From an interchange of views and opinions with the oldest Medical Societies and a large number of the most prominent physicians in the State, it is believed that it is desirable that a Convention of the Regular Physicians of Georgia should be held at some suitable time and place, to express the views of the Profession at large as to the action of the last meeting of the Georgia Medical Association in reversing the judgment passed at three successive meetings in 1868, 1869 and 1870, in relation to the Atlanta Medical College, and to take such other action as may be deemed necessary to secure the unity of the profession, and the rights of the people.

We, the undersigned members of the profession, fully assent to the call for a Convention to be held in the city of Macon, Ga., on the first Wednesday in July next, 5th, as the time for holding such Convention, and invite the presence and co-operation of all the regular practitioners of the State who are desirous of upholding the dignity and honor of the Medical Profession.

Up to the hour of 11½ o'clock there had been [illegible] subscribed to the call, and delegates from [illegible] others will arrive to-day. Dr. [illegible] E. S. Ray, T. S. Powell, J. N. Simmons, G. G. Crawford, J. T. Johnson, W. A. Love, E. P. Ingraham, W. T. Goldsmith, W. D. Jackson, E. J. Roach. From Savannah, Drs. D. D. Arnold, J. G. Thomas, J. D. Charlton, W. Duncan, J. E. Newman, R. S. Pierce. From Columbus, R. J. Kirkley, J. H. Taliaferro. Various other sections are represented, and the arrivals of other trains to-day will swell the list.

The Convention is announced to begin its session at the City Hall at the hour of 10 A. M. to-day. The members are busy this morning interchanging views with regard to the proposed action of the body, of course all who are particularly interested in the Atlanta Medical College are concerned as to what will be the result of the deliberations and decisions of a body, the members of which have been convoked with the special view to sit in judgment upon the action taken at the late session of the Georgia Medical Association, at Americus, as affecting previous action of the Association having reference to the college and the members of the Faculty thereof.

A subsequent communication will advise you of the proceedings of the convention.

J. N. S.

Educational.

"A MATTER OF INTEREST TO TEACHERS AND CITIZENS."

To the Editor of the Courier Journal:

Under the above caption, two articles have recently appeared in your columns, over the signature "D.," professedly criticising the school books of "The University Publishing Company." The articles include a very general disquisition on political economy, and a criticism, chiefly verbal and unimportant, of a few errors detected in some of the books which have been reviewed.

* * * * * * *

"D," seems to view the question from the stand point of a producer—of one who makes books for sale. I am compelled to view it from the stand point of a consumer, I buy books for use. "D," as a producer, does not seem to like competition—it tends to lower the price of his wares. For that very reason, I, as a consumer, desire the largest competition. I wish to obtain the best quality of goods at the lowest price. The New England manufacturer, in order to prevent competition, demands a tax upon competing products, thus enhancing prices to the consumer. While "D," does not claim this species of protection in words, its attack on the books of the "University Publishing Company" seems directed practically to that end, as the following figures will show:

The five "Readers" of the Home Publishing Company, which he advocates, will cost, I am informed, per set	$3 40
The five corresponding "Readers" of the University series cost, per set	3 05
Difference in favor of "University" series	$0 35
There are probably 200,000 children in Kentucky of suitable age for attending school.
It will cost to furnish 100,000 sets of "Readers" alone of the Home Company	$340,000
Of the "University" series	305,000
Difference in favor of University series	$ 35,000

"D.," as a producer, doubtless thinks it a fine stroke of "political economy" to earn this profit of $35,000 for his Home Publishing Company. But, as a consumer, I think it would be a case of practical economy, if not of political economy, for every consumer to keep his share of this unnecessary outlay at his own home rather than put it in the pocket of the producer.

The next question which arises is as to the relative merits of the two series.

* * * * * * *

Personal inspection is also necessary to obtain a just conception of the contents of the book. The merely verbal criticisms of "D" form scarcely the basis for a conjecture. He discovers in the child's "Reader" a proposition improperly used, some pronouns out of place, and a few other immaterial errors, and with a majestic stroke of his pen and a withering sneer, he proceeds to condemn the whole series of "University" books consisting of nearly fifty separate works. If "D." were to turn his attention to astronomy, and were to discover a spot—even the smallest speck—on the sun, he would probably banish that luminary from the universe, as "unworthy of patronage" in its present form. Let us hope, therefore, that for a time he will limit his criticisms to terrestrial subjects. The following are a few of his comments upon the "Second Reader" of the "University" series—a book especially adapted in style and matter to the comprehension of the youngest pupils:

On page 20 he finds a little story entitled "The Boat." Two boys approach it. One invites the other to get into it. The other replies: "Papa told me we must not go in it." Tho boy means, of course, that his father has forbidden him to sail upon the lake in the boat—to "go in it," as he says in childish phrase. We may well say that a boy can go to any place "in a buggy," "in a carriage," or that he may "go in a boat." It is as likely that the author meant this, as that he meant to limit the boy's movements to going into the boat. But "D." seems to claim an intuitive knowledge of what the author meant to say, and insists that he should make the boy say "go into it." Not only this, but "D." prescribes the manner in which these unfortunate boys shall proceed. The author makes one of them say of the boat, "We must wait and sail in it with papa." "D" will not accord them that privilege. He will not permit a proceeding which may be described by using a small word as "in." It is wrong, he says, to use such a word in that sentence. He insists that the boys shall "sail into it with papa," regardless of the consequences of so serious a collision. Such are some of the results of enlightened criticism.

The critic says that on page 46 "a calf is defined to be a young cow." In following his reference I find a very different thing. The author says 'a young cow is calf." If it were asserted that a little girl is a child, would this acute critic therefore pronounce that every child must necessarily be a girl?

He criticises a single superfluous word in a nursery rhyme on page 65, as if the fate of the Home Publishing Company depended upon his showing the word to be faulty.

After having confounded the use of his pronouns, in the introduction to his imaginary colloquy, in such a manner as to make the editor of the Courier Journal the agent for the sale of his Boston furniture, he does not hesitate to betray the learned Professor Holmes on the proper use of pronouns, and to ridicule his pretensions to the knowledge of English Grammar. If so acute a critic as "D" can fall into such a mistake in a single brief article, why may not or inferior a person as Professor Holmes be indulged in an occasional error in a series of books, particularly when he has the printer for his partner?

In discussing Maury's Geography the same style of criticism is pursued by "D," as that which he employs on the readers. A few insignificant errors are dwelt upon "in words of learned length and thundering sound." Most of these errors, I believe, have already been corrected, on the proofs; but the number of errors were twofold those pointed out by "D." I think Maury's Geography would still be pronounced, by competent critics, the most useful and most attractive work on the subject which has yet been introduced into the schools. The publication of his books marks an era in the study of that branch of knowledge.

After every possible objection to criticism and to reason, Commissioner Maury is, perhaps, no exception to the general rule. After having received the unanimous indorsement of so many men of learning, professors, teachers, and laymen; and after having received the blessings of so many little people, to whom he has opened an attractive path to useful knowledge, it must be painful to him in the extreme to read the cruel language of the advocate of the Home Publishing Company: "We have demonstrated," says D. "the works of Holmes and Maury to be unworthy of patronage, as they now stand." We trust that we have done with these books!" Perhaps it would have been quite as modest to let others judge of the completeness of the demonstration!

When the improper use of a few pronouns, the doubtful use of one preposition, and the discovery of a few errors, are considered, in the opinion of "D," to "demonstrate" a whole series of the University books to be unworthy of patronage, we have a right to think that the books advocated by him in opposition are absolutely perfect. Such, however, does not seem to be the case.

In the Second Reader of the Home Publishing Company is found the very same error, in honor of the Fourth.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Several well known officers of the New York and Philadelphia are using their best efforts to save the life of the Frederick Carvada, of Cuba, the General who was captured on the 7th instant, by a Spanish gunboat. Prominent gentlemen have gone to Long Branch to request President Grant to direct Secretary Fish to intercede for Carvada.

CAPE ISLAND, July 5.—The boats started from the United States steamer Pinta, anchored above, one mile from the beach, in front of Stockton Hotel, which had on board Regatta Committee and invited guests. The Judges are W. W. Owen, of the United States Navy, Gen. R. Burd Grubb, of New York, and Uhas. Macalister, of Philadelphia. The steam yacht Mischief came up, followed by Sappho, Wanderer, Dauntless, Columbia, and others. On the signal gun from the Pinta yacht, got off, the wind being due Southwest. The Dauntless, Sappho, and Columbia, led off and the start was a fair one; the course, as laid out, triangular, going first to light ship easterly, then to northward around buoy direct southwesterly to point of starting, distance being 25 miles—sailed four hours sailing with good wind. The contest will continue during the entire day. No conjecture can be formed as to the result. The Columbia and Vindex are great favorites, but there appears to be no betting; the wind was light, although they started and a drifting race was anticipated. Great interest manifested in the race, but the Vesper not coming up in time, has been ruled out of the regatta.

Morning Edition.

ATLANTA:

THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1871.

Oglethorpe University.

The Board of Trustees meet this morning at 10 o'clock.

Hon. W. P. Price.

We were happy to greet in our sanctum yesterday, the Hon. W. P. Price, our Congressman from the Sixth District. The Colonel is as young looking, hearty and jovial as ever.

Oglethorpe College.

Our people have had the pleasure of witnessing the commencement exercises of this institution, the first since its establishment. The hall was crowded day and night with the beauty and intelligence of Atlanta. The exercises compared favorably with any we have ever witnessed, and our people have cause for great rejoicing over the acquisition of a college for the education of young men, that will challenge comparison with the best in the land. Henceforth Atlanta looks forward to annually recurring commencement occasions, and our whole people are waking up to the determination of making our college second to none in the South. The next term will open with a largely increased number of students.

The Georgia Western Road.

By the proceedings, which appear in our local columns, it will be seen that, at the meeting yesterday of the stockholders of this road, a President and ten Directors were elected. We are glad that harmony was secured in casting the vote of the city. The friends of our fellow citizen, E. E. Rawson, Esq., during the absence of that gentleman from the city, warmly pressed his claims for the Presidency, and the issue became involved in great uncertainty. But Mr. Rawson, determined not to be an obstacle to entire harmony of action, notified his friends to withdraw his name. The vote was therefore cast unanimously for Major Campbell Wallace, whose energy, experience and railroad reputation give promise of the speedy building of the road. Now let the work go forward without delay. The people are in earnest and a unit.

☞ The shoe manufactures of the United States protest against the taxes imposed upon them, and say that the tariff has a tendency to drive their products from the markets of Canada, Mexico and the West Indies; a trade they enjoyed for more than a century. They ask for an entire removal of all protective duties.

☞ Atlanta, Ga., is the dirtiest city in the United States.

We clip the above from the "small talk," of the Lynchburg Republican. Those living in glass houses should not throw stones.

Georgia Western Railroad.

A correspondent of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, extolling the prospective benefits to be derived from a connection with the mineral regions of Alabama by means of the railroad named at the head of this article, says:

The question now to be decided is, how to insure its completion. The plain answer is, to put the right man at the head of the enterprise. Who is that man? I say emphatically, Major Campbell Wallace is pre-eminently the man for the place. Secure him as President, and the road will be speedily built. His influence in both States is greater than any other man's. His position as general manager of the building of the North and South Road in Alabama has placed him prominently before the people and State authorities of that State for two years past, and no man can wield greater influence in behalf of the enterprise of that State than he, and it is certain that no man can do more for it in Georgia than he.

His standing with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad would insure to the Western the good will and pecuniary aid of that Company, which, of itself, would secure the completion of the road without the vexation of pecuniary State aid.

We entirely agree with the correspondent whom we have quoted, that Major Campbell Wallace is the man not only for that place, but for any other in which the chief duty of the incumbent is to push through a road that no other man could push through; but the truth is we need the Major in Montgomery yet awhile, and expect that need to deepen and widen, and grow more urgent as successive years roll onward from the future into the past. In plain language, we can't spare him now, and never expect to be able to spare him hereafter. It would please us decidedly—because it would assist in building up our State—to see the Georgia Western Road built. The magnitude of this great enterprise will be better understood by our readers when they know that the road, as projected, is expected to cross the two States of Alabama and Mississippi from East to West, crossing in this State the counties of Cleburne, Calhoun, Talladega, St. Clair, Jefferson, Walker, Fayette, and Sandford, thus opening up to Atlanta, Augusta, and other Southern cities the finest coal and iron fields in the world. If Atlanta will ignore all sold-cat-ism in this great enterprise and start off right, and in earnest, she will find the solid men of Alabama standing shoulder to shoulder with her until the great work is completed. But we can't spare Major Wallace—let that be understood—Montgomery Advertiser.

The Doctors in Council—Interesting; perhaps Stormy Session Anticipated —The Disciples of Esculapius Gathering from all Quarters—The Cause Assigned for "A Call for a Convention of the Regular Physicians of Georgia"—Atlanta and other cities represented.

MACON, GA., July 5, 1871.

Editor Constitution: By reason of the following call signed by one hundred and fourteen physicians, representing distinct and remote localities, the extraordinary convocations occurs in this city to-day.

A CALL FOR A CONVENTION OF THE REGULAR PHYSICIANS OF GEORGIA.

From an interchange of views and opinions with the oldest Medical Societies and a large number of the most prominent physicians in the State, it is believed that it is desirable that a Convention of the Regular Physicians of Georgia should be held at some suitable time and place, to express the views of the Profession at large as to the action of the last session of the Georgia Medical Association in reversing the judgment passed at three successive meetings in 1868, 1869, and 1870, in relation to the Atlanta Medical College; and to state as briefly as possible the reasons for the adoption of such views.

We, therefore, the undersigned, hereby respectfully name Macon, Ga., as the place, and the first Wednesday in July next, 5th, as the time, for holding such Convention, and invite the presence and co-operation of all the regular practitioners of the State who are desirous of upholding the dignity and honor of the Medical Profession.

[Here follows a list of 114 names from all parts of the State, most of representations from Atlanta. Some of the leading names are as follows: Drs. J. P. Logan, E. S. Ray, T. S. Powell, J. N. Simmons, G. G. Crawford, J. T. Johnson, W. A. Love, E. P. Ingraham, H. T. Goldsmith, W. D. Jackson, E. J. Roach. From Stonewall: Drs. R. D. Arnold, J. G. Thomas, J. D. Charlton, W. Duncan, J. E. Newman, H. S. Pierce. From Columbus: E. J. Kirkley, V. H. Taliaferro. Various other sections of the State, from which the arrivals of other trains to-day will swell the list.

The Convention is announced to begin its session at the City Hall at the hour of 10 A. M. to-day. The members are busy this morning interchanging views with regard to the proposed action of the body, of course all who are particularly interested in the Atlanta Medical College are concerned as to what will be the result of the deliberations and decisions of a body, the members of which have been convoked with the special view to sit in judgment upon the action taken at the late session of the Georgia Medical Association, at Americus, as affecting previous action of the Association having reference to the college and the members of the Faculty thereof.

A subsequent communication will advise you of the proceedings of the convention.

Educational.

"A MATTER OF INTEREST TO TEACHERS AND CITIZENS."

To the Editor of the Courier Journal:

Under the above caption, two articles have recently appeared in your columns, over the signature "D.," professedly criticising the school books of "The University Publishing Company." The articles include a very general disquisition on political economy, and a criticism, chiefly verbal and unimportant, of a few errors detected in some of the books which have been reviewed.

* * * * * * *

"D." seems to view the question from the stand point of a producer—of one who makes books for sale. I am compelled to view it from the stand point of a consumer. I buy books for use. "D." as a producer, does not seem to like competition—it tends to lower the price of his wares. For that very reason I, as a consumer, desire the largest competition. I wish to obtain the best quality of goods at the lowest price. The New England manufacturer, in order to prevent competition, demands a tax upon competing products, thus enhancing prices to the consumer. While "D." does not claim this species of protection in words, his attack on the books of the "University Publishing Company" seems directed practically to that end, as the following figures will show:

The five "Readers" of the Home Publishing Company, which he advocates, will cost, I am informed, per set	$3 40
The five corresponding "Readers" of the University series cost, per set	3 05
Difference in favor of "University" series	$0 35

There are probably 300,000 children in Kentucky of suitable age for attending school.

It will cost to furnish 100,000 sets of "Readers" alone of the Home Company	$340,000
Of the "University" series	305,000
Difference in favor of University series	$ 35,000

"D.," as a producer, doubtless thinks it a fine stroke of "political economy" to earn this profit of $35,000 for his Home Publishing Company. But, as a consumer, I think it would be a case of practical economy; if not of political economy, for every consumer to keep his share of this unnecessary outlay at his own home rather than put it in the pocket of the producer.

The next question which arises is as to the relative merits of the two series.

* * * * * * * *

Personal inspection is also necessary to obtain a just conception of the contents of the book. The merely verbal criticisms of "D" form scarcely the basis for a conjecture. He discovers in the child's "Reader" a preposition improperly used, some pronouns out of place, and a few other immaterial errors, and with a majestic stroke of his pen and a withering sneer, he proceeds to condemn the whole series of "University" books consisting of nearly fifty separate works! If "D." were to turn his attention to astronomy, and were to discover a spot—even the smallest speck—on the sun, he would probably banish that luminary from the universe, as "unworthy of patronage" in its present form. Let us hope, therefore, that for a time he will limit his criticisms to terrestrial subjects. The following are a few of his comments upon the "Second Reader" of the "University" series—a book especially adapted in style and matter to the comprehension of the youngest pupils:

On page 20 he finds a little story entitled "The Boat." Two boys approach it. One invites the other to get into it. The other replies: "Papa told me we must not go in it." The boy means, of course, that his father has forbidden him to sail upon the lake in the boat—to "go in it," as he says in childish phrase. We may well say that a boy can go to any place "in a buggy," "in a carriage," or that he may "go in a boat." It is as likely that the author meant this, as that he meant to limit the boy's movements to going into the boat. But "D." seems to claim an intuitive knowledge of what the author meant to say, and insists that he should make the boy say "go into it." Not only this, but "D." prescribes the manner in which these unfortunate boys shall proceed. The author makes one of them say of the boat, "We must wait and sail in it with papa." "D." will not accord them that privilege. He will not permit a proceeding which may be described by using so small a word as "in." It is wrong, he says, to use such a word in that sentence. He insists that the boys shall "sail into it with papa," regardless of the consequences of so serious a collision. Such are some of the results of enlightened criticism.

The critic says that on page 46 "a calf is described to be a young cow." In following his reference I find a very different thing. The author says 'a young cow is calf." If it were asserted that a little girl is a child, would this acute critic therefore pronounce that every child must necessarily be a girl?

He criticises a single superfluous word in a nursery rhyme on page 65, as if the fate of the Home Publishing Company depended upon his showing the word to be faulty.

After having confounded the use of his pronouns, in the introduction to his imaginary colloquy, in such a manner as to make the editor of the Courier-Journal the agent for the sale of his Boston furniture, he does not hesitate to betray the learned Professor Holmes on the proper use of preposition, and to ridicule his pronunciation of the Italian word ciel. If so acute a critic as "D." can fall into such a mistake in a single sentence, why may not an inferior person as Professor Holmes be indulged in an occasional error in a series of books, particularly when he has the printer for his partner?

In discussing Maury's Geography the same style of criticism is pursued by "D." as that which he employs on the reader. A few insignificant errors are dwelt upon "in words of learned length and thundering sound." Most of these errors, I believe, have already been corrected, on the plates, and the number of errors were limited those pointed out by "D." I think Maury's Geography would still be pronounced, by competent critics, the most useful and most attractive work on the subject which has yet been introduced into the schools. The publication of his books marks an era in the study of that branch of knowledge.

I have appeared positive to speak out to-day. Commissioner Maury is, perhaps, no exception to the general rule. After having received the congratulations of so many men of learning, professors, teachers, and laymen; and after having received the blessings of so many little people, to whom he had opened an attractive path to useful knowledge, it must be painful to him in the extreme to read the cruel language of the advocate of the Home Publishing Company: "We have demonstrated," says D. "the works of Holmes and Maury to be unworthy of patronage, as the new class." We ask that we have done with these books!" Perhaps it would have been quite as modest to let others judge of the completeness of the demonstration!

When the improper use of a few pronouns, the doubtful use of one preposition, and the discovery of a few errors, are selected, in the opinion of "D." to "demonstrate" a whole series of the University books to be unworthy of patronage, we have a right to think that the books advocated by him in opposition are absolutely perfect. Such, however, does not seem to be the case.

In the Second Reader of the Home Publishing Company is found the very same error, in the use of the preposition "in," which "D." points out in the University Reader. In the Home Reader, on page 46, the author says: "Then I will go and get a boat." In the University Reader, on page 65, the author says: "Then I will go in a boat." Here, then, is a case in point, where the author of the Home Reader has fallen into the very error which "D." points out in the University Reader. Will "D." condemn the Home Reader for this error? Will he condemn the whole series of "Home" books for this error? Will he condemn Maury's Geography for the same error? Will he condemn Holmes' Readers for the same error? Will he condemn Holmes' Readers for the same error? Will he condemn Holmes' Readers

LITHONIA AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—We learn that the Lithonia Agricultural Society will hold a celebration on the 20th, with a basket dinner and a speech from Samuel Barnett.

DIRECTORS of the Georgia Western Road will meet at the Banking House of J. H. James at 9 A. M. to-day.

President.

PERSONAL.—Rev. A. L. L. Hamilton, D. D., President of Madison College at Cuthbert; Major R. H. True, of Madison, and Colonel C. R. Hanleiter, the Nestor of the Georgia press, are in the city.

GRIFFIN, MONTICELLO AND MADISON RAILROAD.—The corporators of the [illegible] met at a meeting at the Kimball House yesterday. We learn that a meeting of the stockholders was called, to come off at Indian Springs on the 20th inst.

INCREASED CIRCULATION.—We print some six hundred extra copies of THE CONSTITUTION this morning, and frequently of late issue from five hundred to a thousand extra. We are glad thus to give wider circulation to the advertisements of our patrons.

CROPS IN BARTOW.—We are indebted to a kind friend in Bartow county for the information that rain is very much needed in that county. Wheat is almost worthless, oats sorry, cotton backwards and grassy and corn good.

THE TUMLIN IDOL.—A personal friend at Cartersville sends us three photographs of the idol or stone image dug up on Colonel Tumlin's place. In the photographs the idol appears very white, whereas, we learn it is a light black or dark brown. The photographs were taken by the Moody Brothers.

A CURIOSITY.—Major John B. Steward, of DeKalb county, has discovered in his cornfield a stalk of corn that bifurcates some three or four feet from the ground, and from that point up, is sending up two good stalks.

SEWERAGE PIPES.—The City Council having appointed a committee for the examination of pipes for sewerage, the committee will doubtless call on Messrs. Pellegrini and Giorgi, whose Iuka cotta works are in full blast, and who advertise that they manufacture a superior pipe for the purpose desired.

ROME AGRICULTURAL CONVENTION.—We learn that the following distinguished delegates will be in attendance at the Agricultural Convention in Rome: Gen. Robert Toombs, ex-Gov. R. V. Johnson, Hon. Joseph E. Brown, Hon. W. P. Price, and Hon. Mark A. Cooper.

J. B. THOMPSON, at his fruit store on Marietta street, near the State House, is daily receiving fresh fruit and melons, which he is prepared to furnish and deliver in any quantity. Two hundred and fifty melons received yesterday.

IN THE CITY.—We had a most pleasant call, last evening, from our brother of the press, Major W. T. Thompson, of the Savannah News. He is on a rejuvenating trip to Kenesaw, Lookout and Montvale. We wish him a pleasant journey and sweet return.

MERCIFUL.—Yesterday we observed an incident, showing the tender regard of a gentleman for the comfort of a dumb animal. The horse attached to Gadsman's wagon had affixed to his head a cap or hat which protected his cranium alike from the heat and from flies.

HOOD FRUITS.—Phillips, Flanders & Co. advertise in THE DAILY CONSTITUTION. They want the people to know that they have good goods to sell. And the people do know it. This firm received within the past few days orders for goods from Grenada and Jackson, Mississippi, and other points, from parties who say, in sending their orders, "we saw your advertisement in THE ATLANTA DAILY CONSTITUTION."

COURT OF ORDINARY.—Judge Pittman adjourned the regular term of his Probate Court over until the 25th inst., for the purpose of giving further time to executors, administrators, etc., to make returns. It is understood that all who do not have in their returns by that time will be ruled in terms of the law.

GREAT RAILROAD RALLY.—A mass meeting of the citizens in favor of building the Florida Western Railroad at once, will be held in front of the Kimball House, this evening, at 8 o'clock. Colonel G. W. Adair will make a railroad talk, and other speakers may be expected to make addresses. Let every tax-payer be present!

SCHOOL FURNITURE.—We are pleased to announce that W. A. Slaymaker has completed his factory, and is now ready to furnish school's with desks, seats, etc., etc., to any committee. This institution commends itself to the people on account of the employment it gives our mechanics, keeping capital in our midst, and adding to the general wealth of the community and of the State. The iron castings are made by the firm of Withers & Jones, and do credit to our city, comparing favorably with any made in the United States.

FAMILY GROCERY.—The attention of our readers, particularly those in the southern section of the city, is called to the advertisement of Laird & Smith, who have purchased the store of Mr. Duck, on McDonough street, and will there continue a first-class neighborhood store for the supply of family groceries. The store will be a branch of their White-hall establishment. We have long known one of the firm, Mr. Laird, and we can most heartily and cordially commend him, and through him the firm. He has had long experience in the business, and our readers will do well to give their new branch store an immediate call.

SENATORIAL DISTRICT COURT.—The 35th Senatorial District Court was in session yesterday. Judge Lawrence and District Attorney Irwin are laboring diligently to clear the jail of criminals.

Antony Brown (colored) was found not guilty of the charge of cheating and swindling.

Milley Sledge was found guilty of using obscene language in presence of a female, and sentenced to pay a fine of $20 and costs or go on the work gang for six months.

Le Fletcher was found guilty of using obscene language in two cases. A fine of $50 and costs, or six months on the work gang, was imposed in each case.

Mr. Stubblefield was acquitted of the charge of using language tending to provoke a breach of the peace.

The District Attorney asked an extension of time in this case.

Several cases of rape, made up from evidence before this court on the charge of fornication, settled the matter by pleading guilty.

Court adjourned until nine o'clock this morning.

At a meeting of the police, held this day, to draft resolutions commemorative of the death of their lamented brother, Thomas Costello, Alderman A. L. Fowler, Chairman of Police Committee, was called to the chair, and H. W. Wooding was requested to act as Secretary.

The Chair appointed the following gentlemen as that committee: Major T. H. Williams, Alderman C. W. Wells, Lieutenant D. M. Quinn, Officers H. W. Wooding, J. W. Carson, W. H. Holcomb and Powell Owens.

The committee, through their chairman, reported the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the minutes be transcribed in the records of the police office, and that the City Council be requested to act on the same.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these proceedings be sent to his bereaved relatives and friends, and the city papers be requested to publish the same.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

CALLED MEETING OF COUNCIL.—At the regular meeting of the Council Friday night, the Mayor called a meeting of Council at his office for Tuesday night to consider the report of the Tax Committee and the resolution of Mr. Norcross and others. On Tuesday evening the Chairman of the Tax Committee informed His Honor the Mayor that the Tax Committee would not be ready to report, when the Mayor announced there would be no meeting. However, several members of Council met at the Mayor's office and sent for His Honor, who came soon after.

There were present His Honor Mayor Hammond, and Aldermen Clarke, Wells, Rice, McLendon, Lowry, Grubb, Graham, Snyder, Finch. Alderman Fowler was absent.

Alderman Lowry offered the following:

Resolved, By the Mayor and Council of the city of Atlanta, that all of the proceedings of Council had at the regular meeting on the 23rd of June, giving power to the Mayor to appoint a committee to represent the stock subscribed by the city in the Georgia Western Railroad, at the annual meeting of the stockholders of said company, to be held in this city on the 24th of this month, be and the same is hereby repealed, rescinded, and for nothing held, and all the powers vested in the committee appointed in pursuance of said proceedings are hereby revoked.

Alderman Clarke protested against the entertaining of the resolution, and denounced it in severe terms. Was it ear ying out the purpose for which the meeting was called?

Alderman Lowry insisted upon the passage of his resolutions.

Mayor Hammond stated that he had appointed the Committee in accordance with the instructions of Council, in good faith, unbiased and unbiassed. The committee as well as the minutes containing the resolution authorizing their appointment, were confirmed. He appointed a committee that he thought would most likely promote the interests of Atlanta and the Georgia Western Road. He did not accede to the called meeting, jumped up as it was upon the Council, the power to revoke what he in good faith had legally made. The Mayor refused to put the motion, stating that he would give his reasons in writing.

Alderman Wells contended that the resolution was out of order because it was a called meeting for the specific purpose of considering the tax question.

His Honor decided the point well taken.

(Alderman Lowry, Mayor pro tem, put the resolution before Council without the appeal being voted upon.)

His Honor the Mayor and Aldermen Wells, Cassin and Rice retired, leaving Aldermen Lowry, Grubb, McLendon, Finch, Snyder and Graham in the room.

The minutes of the meeting say that Alderman Lowry, Mayor pro tem., put the resolution, and it was carried. This is based on the belief that the bolters had not left the room when the vote was had.

It is claimed by those who remained that if the bolters had not left, the following would have been offered and passed:

Be it resolved by the Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Atlanta, That the vote of the city as a stockholder in the Georgia Western Railroad, now ordered for officers of said company, be cast as follows: Campbell Wallace, for President; Directors—James Ormond, J. H. James, N. A. McLendon, W. J. Garrett, A. W. Mitchell, B. E. Crane, John Collier, Z. A. Rice, J. H. McCaslin, John P. King.

Be it further resolved, That the vote of the city as above provided for, Colonel R. F. Maddox be appointed to cast.

STOCKHOLDERS' CONVENTION OF THE GEORGIA WESTERN RAILROAD.—The Convention was called to order by President Richard Peters, at the City Hall, yesterday, at 10 o'clock A. M. The President appointed Colonel G. W. Adair, Dr. W. P. Harden and J. Ormond as a committee on proxies.
The Secretary called the roll of stockholders, when the following were found to be present in their own right:
Colonel L. J. Glenn, J. E. Gullatt, G. W. Terry, G. W. Adair, E. E. Rawson, City of Atlanta, W. J. Ballard, S. B. Lowe, McNaught, Ormond & Co., Dr. J. Thompson, W. Ezzard, P. & G. T. Dodd, R. Peters, J. A. Hayden, J. Collier, O. H. Jones, G. Edwards, J. S. Wise, T. M. Clark, W. P. Harden, W. P. Orme.
One hundred and sixty-four shares were represented by individuals, and three thousand shares by proxy.
The President stated that Judge King said that the city of Atlanta wishing to control the Georgia Western Road, he did not know whether they wished the assistance of the Georgia Road. He was willing to allow the city of Atlanta to control the election of officers.
A member of Council notified the Convention that the city of Atlanta was ready to vote.
The President asked Judge Collier for his opinion as to whether a corporation could vote in any other way than by proxy.
Judge Collier was of opinion that a corporation could do such as it could authorize a proxy to do, that is, the members of Council could vote as a body.
His Honor, Mayor Hammond, stated that Council had authorized him to appoint five members of Council to cast the vote of the city, and he had done so, and certified to them, under his official hand and seal.
The minutes of July, 1860, were read, and amended.
The Secretary called the roll of directors in place of six, and the vote authorizing the road to be run by Gen Wert. Judge Collier offered a resolution approving and accepting the amendment and authorizing the election of ten directors, approved December 14, 1859, which was adopted.
On motion, the convention went into the election for President and ten directors.
O. H. Jones, J. A. Hayden, and R. J. Lowry were appointed tellers.
After balloting had commenced, that part of the charter or declaring that the President and directors must be stockholders was read, and voters were allowed to withdraw their ballots for the purpose of erasing the names of non-stockholders.
Upon counting out the vote, it was announced that Major Campbell Wallace had received 3,071 votes, there being no opposition; Hon. J. P. King, J. H. James, John Collier, E. Y. Clarke, A. W. Mitchell, Thomas Alexander, A. H. Speights, F. P. Rice, C. P. Cassin and C. W. Wells receiving 3,000 each.
George Hillyer said that when he replied to a question propounded to him, that he represented the Georgia Road, he did not intend to be understood as having a power of attorney to vote the stock. He was there as a Director of the Georgia Road looking after the interests of the road, and as a private citizen interested in the success of the Georgia Western. There is a difference in the Board of Directors of the Georgia Road as to the propriety of continuing the subscription to the Georgia Western Road, which he hoped would be settled satisfactorily. He was not there to settle that question, nor was he authorized to bind the Georgia Road or any member thereof.
After the election was announced Colonel Richard Peters, said: I congratulate you, gentlemen, upon the election of President and Directors of the Georgia Western Railroad for the ensuing year."
Colonel L. J. Glenn said:
"Mr. President: As the law now stands, these gentlemen are elected to fill the unexpired term of the present year, i. e., until the 24th instant."
Alderman R. J. Rice, stated that was not the understanding of the city of Atlanta.
Colonel R. Peters replied that the convention did not go by the "understanding" but by the charter.
Mr. Peters called the attention of Mr. Peters to his advertisement calling the present meeting of the stockholders to elect a President for the ensuing year.
Mr. Peters replied that they could not go back.
Mr. Cassin said that Mr. Peters called the meeting for the 24th of July, and substituted that meeting for called entirely by G in President. If that is your construction of the law, and you have erred, I call upon you to correct it instanter. I press it upon you and in behalf of the citizens of Atlanta, demand that they shall not suffer on account of your error. Don't take advantage of your own error.
Mr. Peters said that he was no longer President, and would withdraw all he said about the term of office or calling the meeting.
Mr. Cassin replied that he could not allow Mr. Peters to escape by any such evasion.
Mr. Peters said, "let me read the law. Under the charter and by-laws the annual meeting is on the first of July. The Directors, finding that the citizens of Atlanta were anxious to push this matter, it was found by the by-laws that, if the election of officers did not take place on the day appointed, the Directors could appoint a day for an election. This meeting was called with the understanding that this election for President and Directors would be for the ensuing year, and in anticipation of the annual meeting."
Colonel Glenn said that it was a matter easily reconciled. Your annual election should have been held last July. Your by-laws says that the officers shall hold over until their successors are elected, and that the Directors may call a meeting for that purpose.
The meeting could have been called last January, but you were not ready to go into organization. It is the duty of the stockholders to hold their annual meeting, and if they fail to do so, the law is to be carried out and you elect for a year.
Mr. Cassin said that this unfortunate mud had been hanging for seventeen years in doubt and uncertainty. With other friends of the road he had come to-day to consummate the deal.
Col. G. W. Adair just qualified in the one word [illegible] to the general remarks of my friend Alderman Cassin. I had the same understanding relative to the election of officers. My action was predicated in good faith upon that belief. I have but one purpose, and that is to build the road. If there has been any error committed, I want it corrected, if it can be done legally. I am no lawyer, but a plain man. Let us agree and push the work on. (Cheers.)
Judge Collier said: "I say three to what Colonel Adair has said."
Colonel Peters said that when the call was made, it was with the idea that the officers were to hold for twelve months. I heard nothing to the contrary until Colonel Glenn suggested it. He was of the opinion that the Convention could elect for twelve months.
Colonel Glenn did not wish to be placed in a false position. My whole desire is to have things done according to law. You have elected officers for nineteen days. Twelve months from date would be July 5th, 1872, leaving nineteen days short of the 24th, the day fixed for the annual Convention. The law is, that the election must take place on the 24th of July. You are bound to have it. I was anxious to see the work commenced. I went to Colonel Peters, and wanted books opened in various places to get all the subscriptions possible by the 24th, to give the Directors means to operate on. Col. Paters thought it best to call this meeting. If you elect the same officers again I will be satisfied.
Colonel Adair wanted to act in good faith with the officers elected. He was anxious to remedy the evil. He wanted a resolution passed, if possible, to remedy the error.
Judge Ezzard agreed with Colonel Glenn, and thought the calling of the meeting on the 5th a mistake. The charter and by laws have fixed the time for the election.
The general understanding was that the newly elected President and Directors should hold over as there was no necessity for holding an election on the 24th, though the annual convention of stockholders would be held.
The convention then adjourned.

Early in the morning a stream of beauty, elegance and grace, wended its way to the City Hall in which the students of the above institution, were to give evidence of the manner in which their powers of elocution had been drawn out. The Sampsons of the class were on that morning to come together for mastery in declamation, in which the refinements of elocution, the graces of delivery and the ingenuity of argument were to be taxed and tried.
Upon entering the Hall, this reporter found collected a large audience. Upon the stage were Clifford Anderson, Esq., of Macon; Rev. Dr. Petrie, of Montgomery; J. J. Gresham, Esq., of Macon; Rev. T. Smith, of Cartersville; Rev. Mr. Johnson, Rev. Dr. Wilson, General Evans, Professor Orr, Dr. Wills, Judge Cabiness, Messrs. Peeples, Janes, Norcross and Whitner. The following was the programme for the day:
Prayer by Rev. Mr. Smith, of Cartersville.
Music by Post Band.
Criminality of Dueling—I. M. Ginn. Hayne's Defense of South Carolina—W. A. McDowell.
MUSIC.
Webster's Reply to Hayne—B. K. Thrower. Eulogy on General Lee—A. C. Briscoe.
MUSIC.
Tribute to General Cleburne—W. T. Moyers. The Maniac—W. H. Venable.
MUSIC.
On the South—George P. Zimmerman. The Majesty of Mind—J. Bruce.
MUSIC.
A Plea for Ireland—Walter Taylor. Bernado Del Carpio—John C. Jones.
MUSIC.
Benediction.
The speakers all acquitted themselves with much credit. Mr. Ginn possesses a good, distinct voice, and evinced the mature man in action and manner. Mr. McDowell spoke well. There was hardly a sufficiency of animation in his pleasant face in his defense of Carolina. Mr. Thrower seemed to possess some of the deliberation of Webster in his delivery, and warmed up with his subject, yet we do not altogether award him the victory over the defender of Carolina. Mr. Briscoe was easy in his manner, graceful in his delivery, and made a favorable impression upon the audience. Mr. Moyers appeared quite young, has a good voice, and delivered his speech very well. Mr. Zimmerman gracefully yet with feeling depicted the injuries and wrongs inflicted upon the South. Mr. Bruce made reputation by his easy manner, earnestness and graceful delivery. Mr. Taylor, like Mr. Zimmerman, appeared quite young, and delivered his speech in a style pleasing to the audience. Mr. Jones gave a capital rendition of "Bernado Del Carpio." This young gentleman has quite a reputation among his companions for his powers of oratory. The "Maniac" is not a favorite with us, and is a very different piece to be successfully delivered, yet the well controlled and powerful voice of Mr. Venable, the varied intonations, and the fitting gestures which all go to make a speaker pleasing, accurate and self-possessed were apparent.
The class acquitted themselves with much honor, reflecting great credit on their instructors.
Boquets were showered in abundance on the speakers; the music was excellent, and the friends of the University were gratified at the success of the morning's exercises.
Tuesday night the house was filled to overflowing. Upon the stage we noticed of the Trustees of the University, Rev. Dr. Wills, Rev. Dr. Wilson, Rev. J. T. Leftwich, Colonel J. J. Gresham and Judge Clifford Anderson, of Macon, Colonel E. Y. Clarke, Major J. C. Whitner, Col nel T. Stiles Farrow, J. R. Wallace, Esq., Rev. G. L. Petrie, D. D., of Montgomery, Ala., and among others Rev. A. L. Hamilton, D. D., President of Andrew Female College, at Cuthbert.
Rev. Dr. Wills introduced the orator of the evening Prof. Frank A. Lipscomb, one of the most accomplished and youthful Professors in the United States. His address was one of rare power and eloquence, eliciting loud and frequent applause during its graceful and forcible delivery, and hearty compliment afterward. His voice is finely modulated, and his periods flow with a musical rhythm. We express a general opinion in saying that he last night made a gallant bound after the footsteps of his illustrious father, the Chancellor. He discussed with great clearness, depth, and philosophy the effects of Race and Religion upon the civilization and destiny of nations, showing that Religion, more than Race, marked the Eras in human history. As the address will be published, we will not give a synopsis of it.
The prizes were then delivered by Howard Van Epps, Esq. In addressing the contestants he chose for his theme "Emulation," citing illustrious examples worthy of study and imitation. Mr. Van Epps acquitted himself handsomely. He is an orator of great ability, both by nature and culture, and being one of the EFFERSE order, a fine field lies before him as a criminal lawyer. His friends, especially his young legal friends and associates, congratulate him on his success.
The prize of the Freshman Class was awarded to A. S. Clayton, and that of the Sophomore Class to W. H. Venable.
Yesterday morning, at half-past nine o'clock, the exercises of Commencement day proper began with prayer and music. "The Art of Conversation" was the theme dwelt upon with marked success by C. B. Gaskill.
Our young friend Virgil C. Norcross, discussed "The Follies of the Age," in an original and striking manner, displaying great power of thought.
"Just before the Battle," had a superb rendition at the hands of H. H. Tarver.
Joseph M. Brown spoke of "Stonewall Jackson" in an effort gemmed with poetic thought, and marked beauty and force of language and imagery. He was deluged with bouquets, showing his popularity with the ladies.
C. R. Gaskill delineated in fine style the worth and importance of "Origin al Knowledge."
"My Country," was the patriotic theme of R. A. Mansfield. He handled the subject with ease.
I. T. Wills spoke of "The Power of the Press." It was exceedingly well delivered. In it occurred the following passage:
"In the city of Atlanta, we have some of the best dailies and weeklies of the age. THE CONSTITUTION stands like a pillar of strength in the midst of the political corruption of the times. (Prolonged applause.) The Sun is shedding forth its beams of intelligence upon the masses like the glorious orb of day. (Applause.) The New Era is the great organ of the party it represents, and marks a new era in our public affairs. The True Georgian, Phœnix Rise, has come forth from the ashes, and her Reed now sings in thrilling strains the bright and glorious career she is to run." (Applause.) He also paid a high compliment to the Index of Penfield, and closed by saying all its co-laborers in Christiana, and upheld THE CONSTITUTION, as this course would bring to shine over us the fires of prosperity, and secure a New Era in our South land.
R. P. Stafford in "Innovations," gave his hearers something new and interesting.
W. A. Spencer made the closing speech, replete with sentiment and sense and sparkling gems of thought. His theme was, "There's Life in the Old Land Yet."
And thus closed the Gala Day of the commencement exercises of Goldthorpe University.
The graduates were long and loudly applauded; and took off of the stage many tokens of appreciation from the fair sex, in the shape of handsome bouquets.

MATTIE'S WANTS AND WISHES.

I wants a glass of cidder
To make my dad a dream;
I doesn't want a big glass,
A year'll do, I guess.

I wish you'd find my needle,
And find me my thimble too—
I has such hopes a sewer
I don't know's I want to do.

My Happy toted her square
A tune he didn't like to hear,
And Fred's a little bit jealous
And needs another pair.

I wants my Maud a bonnet,
She hasn't none at all,
And Fred must have a jacket,
His ozzer one's too small.

I wear's 'id [illegible]
You 'member her I bought;
I know she'd like to see me—
I wants to go to-night.

She lets me wash the dishes,
And see in grandpa's watch—
Wish I'd free; four pennies
To buy some butter-scotch.

I wants some new mitt-ens—
I wish you'd knit me some,
Cause most my finger tipsies,
They look so in the sun.

I wore 'id out last summer,
A pattin' Gamma did;
I wish you wouldn't laugh so—
It hurts me in my head.

I wish I had a doodle
I'm hungry as I can be;
If you have a pretty large one
You'd better bring me free.

City and Suburban.

FIRE.—Tuesday morning, about 5 o'clock, there was an alarm of fire. The fire originated in a store house on Whitehall street, just above Hagan's Variety Store, and was occupied by Mr. Dukes. The engines were promptly brought out. Damage very light.

GEORGIA WESTERN ROAD.—At the meeting of the stockholders of the Georgia Western Road, this morning, Campbell Wallace was unanimously elected President, and Hon. John P. King, J. H. James, John Collier, E. Y. Clarke, A. W. Mitchell, T. Alexander, A. M. Speights, C. P. Cassin, F. P. Rice, and C. W. Wells, Directors. We will publish a full report of the proceedings in the morning.

OGLETHORPE PARK.—The lovers of such sport as came off at this place yesterday afternoon, had an opportunity of having their tastes gratified. The McGill mare won the race. In the trotting match, Baltimore Belle was beat the first time, and won on the second match. There were wrestling and running matches, boat rides and lake bathing.

DIED.—Tom Costello, one of our efficient and useful policemen, died of typhoid fever yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Tom had his faults—are any of us free?—and he had his failings—are any of us exempt from them? He was a good, reliable officer, had a warm Irish heart, appreciated a kindness and was true to his friends. This reporter regrets his death, and shall miss him from his beat.

COLORED WOMAN DROWNED.—Last night the excursionists had a ball in some houses on the lower part of Line street, known as the old Government shops, now occupied as carpenter shops. In the rear of these buildings is a large open shed, and under it a deep uncovered well. A man and woman during the evening were promenading under the shed when both fell in the well. The woman was drowned and the man badly bucked and frightened.

EXCURSIONISTS GONE.—The very large number of colored excursionists from Augusta and Chattanooga, that have made lively the city for two or three days, left this morning for their homes. On the 4th they appeared to enjoy themselves hugely after their style. Various processions were on the streets with tolerable bands of music—one we noticed composed of men dressed in black, with white scarfs, bearing a banner inscribed "Union Travelers." Their destination or object could not be proven by any of them.

During their sojourn in the city we must do them the justice to say, that their behavior was very good for so large a crowd. No serious disturbances. They did not appear to be flushed with money, but were all neatly dressed and respectful in their behavior.

Paragraphs, Wise and Otherwise.

There is a young lady in Camden studying Latin. She has a beau. He asked her what sic transit gloria mundi meant. She translated it, "Come and see me on Monday."

One of Darwin's strongest arguments for the descent of man from the monkey is that that the latter animal always parts his hair in the middle.

The Democrats of Wisconsin are to hold their State Convention on the 23d of August. The call declares that the true mission of all parties now is to deal with the practical questions of the day, ignoring those controversies which have been settled by the progress of events.

There is an intelligent dog at Mud Pine, Ind., so sharp that whenever company comes to the house he proceeds at once to catch a chicken, a thing that he will not do at any other time.

It is averred that a glass of soda, with syrup, costs the manufacturers a cent and a quarter.

Use ice water sparingly when flushed with heat.

Short sermons are popular now with church-goers.

A little farm well tilled,
A little barn well filled,
A little wife well willed.

The woman that maketh a good pudding in silence, is better than one that maketh a tart reply.

The ladies have adopted the fashion of dispensing with the button and fastening the chemisett with a blue ribbon instead.

A callous statistician has computed that Indiana politicians daily absorb 141,000 glasses of beverages other than water.

An Iowa paper says: "The long train of covered wagons pouring in from the east and drifting westward is one hundred per cent. greater this year than any previous year since we have been in Iowa.

The girls of Gordon, Connecticut, have organized a boat club, and already make good time at the oar.

Sumner county, Kansas, had not a single inhabitant in the summer of 1870. It now has a population of 9,000. It has one paper, the Oxford Times, devoted to the interests of the county, and it is one column larger than any paper in the Southwest. This county is on the Osage Diminished Reserve.

NOTES GIVEN FOR SLAVES.—The Savannah Republican says: As a matter of very general interest throughout the South we make room to-day for the very clear and, it appears to us, unanswerable opinion of Judge Erskine, of the United States District Court, on the validity of contracts made for the purchase of slaves. It will be seen that the mind of His Honor is clear, and well supported by authority, that "if contracts entered into previous to the promulgation of the President's proclamation of emancipation, the consideration of which was the price and purchase money of slaves, were then valid under the Constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Georgia, the aid of the courts must be given, if demanded, to enforce them."

MASONIC CELEBRATION AND FESTIVAL.—As published in our last, the Fraternity of this city celebrated St. John's day, the 24th of June.

The orator of the occasion was Col. L. T. Doyal, of Griffin. We did not hear the effort of the gentleman, but from the reports of those who did learned, that it was able and highly interesting.

NEW CHURCH.—Thomaston is improving religiously as well as otherwise. On Tuesday last the Rev. John Jones, of Atlanta, organized a Presbyterian Church here with ten adult and eight minor members. Put out an active, energetic and resolute man and you can soon get a sufficient subscription to build your church.—Thomaston Herald.

Dr. Bradfield's Female Regulator.

Sold by every Druggist in Charlotte, N. C., and by Druggists generally. [illegible]

We were kindly furnished the following extract from a letter to Dr. F. Scott, Druggist, of this city:

STANLEY COUNTY, N. C.

Dr. F. Scott—DEAR SIR: While in your town I asked you for something for my wife. You sold me a bottle of Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator, or Women's Best Friend. Please send me by one dozen bottles of the same, as the one I got from you has got my wife finely well. You would not know her now; she has got stout and healthy and as red as a rose. As others are needing it please send me one dozen bottles.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 22, 1871.

Dr. J. H. Bradfield—DEAR SIR: We cheerfully bear testimony to the efficacy and popularity of Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator. Among a number of cases it has benefitted in this community, we mention that of a married lady. She was a sufferer from womb disease; had excessive and disagreeable flow of whites; was weak and languid. She was induced to try the Regulator, and after taking the second bottle she is sound and well. Her health and elasticity of spirits have returned, and she has gained many pounds in weight; feels altogether like a new being. Yours very respectfully, march29—d1f WILSON & BLACK.

BEWARE of worthless imitations with which the country is flooded. To avoid imposition insist on a certificate of genuineness from those of whom you purchase, and see that the words MARION, N. J., are engraved on the plate over the Main Spring Barrel. All others are spurious.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of strictly sectional, unpartisan, and entirely correct School-Books which should be entirely free from the objections, which should present the facts of history and science—are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent scholars named below, which are the Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books?

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,

By Charles S. Venable, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, or well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, concise, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

Holmes' History of the United States,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and reliable, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is strictly superior. It comes down to the present date. Also,

De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,
Cildersleeve's Latin Series,
Carter's Elements of General History,
Holmes' English Grammars,
LeConte's Scientific Series,
Johnston's English Classics,
Duntonian Writing-Books, etc., etc.
